Estoni-ahh… Where Was I Again? : OSINT-Beginner

Creator: Aleena Mehmood Points: –

Description

This is an OSINT geolocation challenge designed to have players practice reserve image searching techniques and basic street/location identification. Competitors are given an image of a souvenir shop in Tallinn Old Town, Estonia. By reverse searching the image, they'll be led to a Japanese travel blog and other references to the same location. The unique statue outside the shop helps narrow it down further. The challenge requires competitors to identify the street name where the photo was taken, which is Raekoja plats (Town Hall Square).

Prompt

So… I was wandering around this super cute medieval town, right? I found this cool souvenir shop, bought way too many magnets, and took a picture. Fast forward to now and uhhh… I totally forgot where it was!

Can you help me remember the street name? Pretty please? I swear there was some kind of statue outside…

Flag format:

- All lowercase
- Use _ for spaces
- Remove any accent marks
- Wrap your answer in flame{}

Hints

1. Maybe the internet remembers what I don't. Try reverse image search.
2. I think a travel blog (not in English!) might've written about this spot. I think they were in some type of Ye Olde Town.

3. That statue outside seems pretty prominent, right? Someone must have pinned it on Google Maps, I'm sure of it!

Solution

1. Start by performing a reverse image search with Google Lens.
2. This leads to a Japanese travel blog mentioning Tallinn, Estonia: https://ameblo.jp/tomochiyo7me/entry-12874447483.html
3. Searching "Tallinn SOUVENIRS" on google maps shows a shop with the same statue outside from the photo with the name: Handmade Tallinn Souvenirs.
4. Handmade Tallinn Souvenirs is located on "Õpetajate Maja, Raekoja plats 14, 10146 Tallinn, Estonia".
5. The street name is: "Raekoja plats" which translates to Town Hall Square. The flag is the street name all lowercase.
